

Alabama farmers don't just grow food, fiber and plants for Americans, they also help feed millions of people around the world.